9. The forage shall be delivered by the contractor at the establishments where the horses or cattle are stationed, and in case the whole ration or forage be not required or delivered, each of the species shall be reckoned as the proportion of the ration undermentioned, viz.:—

The maize or barley	4-12ths.
The hay	5-12ths.
The bran	2-12ths.
The straw	1-12th.

GENERAL CONDITIONS.

10. Parties tendering may do so by either of the three following modes, at their option, viz.:—

1. The whole of the supplies of every description, in each district, may be included in one tender, as at present.
2. Or the supplies may be tendered in sub-divisions, as below, by a separate tender for each sub-division, viz:—
 1. The Military Ration
 2. The several Rations for Exiles and Convicts as described from 2 to 11 inclusive
 3. The Ration of Forage
 4. The Ration of Fuel and Light
 5. The Supplies for Hospitals
 6. The Supplies for Naval Purposes and Penal Settlements
 7. The Supplies for General Purposes.
3. Or the various articles comprising the several rations referred to, as well as all those required for hospitals and other purposes, may be tendered separately or singly, by weight and measure. The undersigned reserving to himself the power of accepting tenders for supplying by any of these modes which he may find most expedient.

11. Contractors shall have at all times on the spot a supply of fourteen days in reserve, in the care of a competent agent, to whom reference may be had in the contractor's absence, in default of which, the Commissariat Officer, or other duly authorised person, may purchase at his, the contractor's expense, such articles as are not forthcoming: and in the event of repeated failures in this respect, together with other causes of dissatisfaction arising from the bad qualities of the supplies as decided by Boards of Survey or arbitrators, it shall be in the power of the undersigned or his successors in office to cancel the contract and enforce the penalty.

12. In the event of a difference of opinion between the contractor and the party receiving the supplies, as to the quality, the same is to be decided according to the practice of the service. But in country districts, where a Board of Survey cannot be conveniently assembled, the party objecting will name one person as Arbitrator, the Contractor or his agent another, and these two will (previously to any other proceeding on their part) concur in naming a third as Umpire, who, in event of the Arbitrators not agreeing in opinion, will be called upon for his decision, which shall be final. The only question referred to the Board, or to the Arbitrators, will be, whether or not the article objected to be such as, by his contract, the Contractor is bound to deliver; and if the Board, Arbitrators, or Umpire, shall decide that the article is not according to the conditions of the Contract, it must be immediately replaced by the Contractor, failing which it will be procured, and the expense charged to his account. In cases where the article is of a perishable nature, or from some other cause injury would be sustained, either by the parties to whom the rations are due, or to the Contractor, by waiting for a Board of Survey, the Head of the Department, or Officer in charge of the party or parties for whom the rations are to be received, shall have power to reject such article or articles as are obviously of inferior quality or in improper condition, it being distinctly understood that he will be responsible to the Government for so doing, and that the Contractor will have a right to appeal; although, in the mean time, he must take back the rejected article, and supply good in its stead, failing which it will be obtained by the Officer or party requiring it, and the expense charged to the Contractor.

13. It shall be in the power of either party to limit the duration of the contract, by giving, in writing, a notice of three calendar months to the opposite party, and to end the contract at the expiration of that period, it being understood that such notice can be given only from the first day of a month, and within the period for which the contract is made, or agreed to be made; and not later than the 1st of August.

14. The Contractor shall prepare his own account monthly according to the prescribed form; and shall receive payment on the production thereof, with the requisite vouchers in a complete state, before the termination of the succeeding month.

15. The value of all packages shall be included in the prices demanded.

16. Persons wishing to tender are requested to apply either at this office, or to the Commissariat Officer in charge of the several stations, who will furnish them with printed forms for the purpose, and communicate further particulars; and as adequate security will be required for the due fulfilment of the contracts, each tender must be accompanied by a letter from the parties proposed as such, stating that they are willing to become bound as securities for the contractor accordingly.

17. The amount of the bonds required in the several districts are as follows:—if contracted for collectively, viz.:—Sydney, £5000; Parramatta, £1000; Liverpool and Campbelltown, £500; Illawarra, £500; Windsor, £500; Penrith, £500; Hartley, £500; Bathurst, £500; Newcastle, £1000; Maitland, £500; Port Macquarie, £500; Moreton Bay, £500; Port Phillip, £500.

The several bonds to be executed on or before the 1st March next, otherwise fresh tenders will be re-advertised for.

18. Tenders, in duplicate, are to be enclosed in a separate envelope, addressed to the undersigned, marked "Supplies for 1846," and no tender made in consequence of this advertisement shall be withdrawn or altered, but those accepted shall be given within eight days of the time of opening.

19. Flour in place of bread to be given for the Military ration, when required, in the proportion of 14 2-7th ozs. of the former, for 16 ozs. of the latter.

20. The Contractor of the district of Sydney will be bound to furnish the rations and articles particularised under the head of provisions, No. 1 to 16, not only for the purposes specified, but also for any other purposes of the Military, Naval, and Convict services, should there be occasion for it.

THE "YOUNG QUEEN."—We regret to state that William Scott, master of the Young Queen, cutter, was drowned last Monday night, whilst endeavouring to swim across the river Paterson. Being an expert swimmer it is supposed that he must have been seized with the cramp. His body was found yesterday morning.

H.M.S. North Star has come on to Sydney to refit, preparatory to leaving for England, which will be in the course of a month. H.M.S. Racehorse was at the Bay of Islands, and the Osprey was stationed at Hokianga. The Calliope, Castor, and Driver, were about to proceed to Port Nicholson, with Governor Grey and 400 of the troops, to settle the disputes concerning the land on the River Hutt. The North Star spoke the schooner Shamrock on the 3rd January, off the Three Kings, from Sydney to Auckland; she reported having been in company with the Star of China two days previous, which was also from Sydney, bound to Auckland.

THE SCHOONER "ELIZA ANN."—The Rose, steamer, which arrived last evening from the Hunter, brought intelligence that the schooner Eliza Ann, belonging to Mr. Gaunson, had become a total wreck, between the Seal Rocks and Port Macquarie, when the master and two sailors were drowned, and the fourth saved his life with great difficulty. We were unable to obtain the full particulars of the wreck; but it will most probably appear in to-morrow's publication.

THE "NORTH STAR."—Associated as this gallant man-of-war has been with the stirring events in this colony, during the last twelve months, we cannot but regret her departure from it; and we trust that on her arrival in England, the services of Sir Everard Home, will be duly appreciated, and that he and his brave officers will meet with commensurate promotion and honours. The conduct of the crew, and the urbanity of those entrusted with the command, have been such during their sojourn in New Zealand, as will ensure the most grateful reminiscences for their bravery and assistance in quelling the recent rebellion, and ensuring to the settlers permanent peace and security.—New Zealander.

DISEMBARKATION OF THE TROOPS FROM THE BAY OF ISLANDS.—On Tuesday afternoon, the divisions of the 58th and 99th Regiments disembarked from the ships of war on their return from the Bay of Islands. The 58th Regiment after nine months absence from here, bore strong marks of the hard service they had undergone. After they had quitted the boats, they were formed under the direction of that active brave officer, Adjutant M'Cleary, and in excellent spirits, headed by their gallant Colonel Wynyard, marched to the cheering airs of their excellent band, to the new barracks. The 99th followed soon after. The Lloyds is daily expected from Sydney, with a further detachment of the 99th, consisting of 100 men, under the command of Major Last, Captain Armstrong, and Lieutenant De Winton.

"Sworn to no master, of no sect am I."

IMPORTANT INTELLIGENCE FROM NEW ZEALAND.

WE have much gratification in announcing that the war in New Zealand is for the present at an end, and that there is every reason to hope that the liberal manner in which Governor GREY has dealt with HEKE and KAWITI, and their associates, will be the foundation of a permanent peace between the two races. At the same time, it will be necessary for a year or two to keep at least a regiment at New Zealand, lest, instigated by designing Europeans and Americans who have no wish that British rule should be firmly established in New Zealand, the natives should be again induced to take up arms.

Our last intelligence from the Bay of Islands reached to the 31st December, when the British forces were encamped within a quarter of a mile of KAWITI'S camp. The official despatches, which we give in another part of the paper, show the progress of events until the final capture of the pah; but in order that they may be more clearly understood, we give a summary of their contents partly compiled from the New Zealander of the 24th ult., and partly from private information.

On the 1st January, the British forces established themselves in a strong stockade, in the middle of a wood, distant about four hundred yards from the pah of Kawiti, and in which, subsequently, were mounted two 32-pounders, and four small 5½ inch mortars, and the wood in front of the guns being cut down, the western face of the pah was exposed to their fire.

On the 2nd January KAWITI made a sortie from his pah, for the purpose of turning the flank of this stockade, and to destroy it before it was finished; but NENE and our allies drove them back, killing four and wounding several of the enemy. The British troops were not engaged in this affair, at the particular desire of the loyal native chiefs. After this sally from the pah, another small stockade but more advanced—about one hundred and sixty yards from the pah, was erected, mounting one 18-pounder, and one 12-pound howitzer, for the purpose of destroying the south-west angle of the pah.

The main camp was distant about half a-mile from the pah, situated on a ridge, surrounded on all sides by thick woods. In front of the camp were three guns, with an apparatus for throwing rockets.

Several days were then occupied in strengthening the position of the British, and advancing towards the enemy's pah. On Saturday the 10th, all the batteries being completed, a general fire was commenced from the whole of them, for the purpose of effecting a breach, and rockets were likewise discharged, in order to annoy the enemy within the pah. Towards evening; the outer works evinced the effect of the guns, and three breaches were made; but the inner stockade, which was afterwards discovered to be immensely strong, did not appear to have been injured. An assault was then contemplated by the commanding officer, and two hundred of the troops were told off, to lead the attack. During the afternoon a great number of natives had been seen from the battery to enter, stealthily, the pah, in small parties; and it was very clear that the natives within the pah were considerably reinforced, and also that they were well prepared, anticipating an assault. The chief MOHI TAWAI remonstrated with the commanding officer, asserting that it would be sacrificing the lives of brave men to attempt the assault on that evening; and that by continuing the breaching, the object would be accomplished in a few days. The troops were then ordered back to the camp.

On the following morning, Sunday, the 11th, a small party of NENE'S natives, with WILLIAM WALKER, his brother, approached the breaches to reconnoitre, and not perceiving or hearing any natives within the outer stockades of the pah, they entered—and as soon as they found that they were unopposed, conveyed signals to our forces in the batteries, when the sailors and troops rushed forward into the pah, before KAWITI'S natives, who were outside the pah, could re-enter. The official account says that the enemy had got under a slope of land to protect themselves from the guns; but other accounts say they were at prayers; both accounts may be true, for they might have gone to the place referred to, to be out of the reach of shot while they celebrated divine worship. As soon as they ascertained that they had thus, by negligence, lost possession of their stronghold, the enemy commenced a heavy fire on our troops from the woods, and from the back part of the pah; but the numerical strength of the European forces and native allies, in addition to the protection afforded by the internal defences of the pah, rendered all attempts unavailing; and if our troops and seamen had remained within the pah, instead of of rushing out to contend with the natives in the woods, very few casualties would have occurred. After continuing the fire, in order to carry off their killed and wounded, the natives retired into the woods to a pah, about three miles distant, recently erected by Heke (who joined KAWITI on Saturday afternoon) as a place of refuge for KAWITI, in case he should be expelled from Ruapekapeka.

The loss of the European forces was twelve killed, of which number nine were seamen and marines; and thirty wounded, inclusive of seventeen seamen and marines. The native rebels suffered a loss of twenty-five killed, as correctly as could be ascertained.

Governor GREY was present during the whole of these proceedings, and will be enabled to corroborate the remarks of Colonel DESPARD as to the meritorious conduct of all who were engaged in these gallant though tedious operations, which have had a more important effect than could have been anticipated.

On Sunday, the 18th January, HEKE and KAWITI went to POMARE'S pah, at the head of the Karetu, but that wily chief would not admit them for fear of implicating himself, and incurring the censure and punishment of the GOVERNOR. They sent to NENE requesting him to meet them, in order to convey to the GOVERNOR their request for peace. NENE would neither go to them, not suffer them to come to him; but deputed his brother WILLIAM WAKA, to receive their communication. Being convinced that they were really sincere in their desire for a termination of hostilities, NENE then went to Auckland in the Victoria, with the concurrence of the other friendly chiefs in alliance with him, to acquaint his EXCELLENCY (who proceeded to Auckland immediately after the capture of the pah), of the submission of HEKE and KAWITI, and to intercede in their behalf. As soon as NENE reached Auckland, His EXCELLENCY the LIEUTENANT-GOVERNOR issued a notice proclaiming peace; and although nothing is said about it in the notice, we believe that the pardon or amnesty was complete, and that it was not intended to deprive HEKE or any of his associates of their lands. This we consider was the wisest step that could have been adopted, and that Governor GREY has added to his previous high character by the promptitude with which he availed himself of the first opportunity of bringing the war to a close.

Now we may hope that our fellow-colonists in New Zealand will be able to turn their attention to the development of the resources of that fine country, and that New Zealand will become a rising and prosperous colony.

BRITISH IGNORANCE OF NEW SOUTH WALES.

FROM time to time our attention is called to the fact that the greatest ignorance respecting this colony obtains at home; and it is not merely indulging in idle conjecture to attribute to this ignorance the difficulties that are thrown in the way of the progress of our affairs by those who ought, on every ground of expediency and political wisdom, to advance them. Notwithstanding the books that have been written about Australia, it is very certain that the British public know little and care less about us. Some striking instances have been exhibited even in Parliament. The late Lord CASTLEREAGH talked of building a bridge over Bass's Straits to connect Sydney and Hobart Town. Lord JOHN RUSSELL, in later times, advised the transportation of colonial felons to Cockatoo Island, no doubt believing it to be somewhere far away beyond sea, in the mysterious neighbourhood of the "King of the Cannibal Islands." The same wise Lord wished to enforce a law to prevent the burning off of grass, and would, no doubt, upon further consideration, have moved the Imperial Legislature to decree a statute against bush fires of all kinds, and the practice of the blacks to burn the grass off their hunting grounds, if not against hot winds in general. Another leader of public affairs spoke of Van Diemen's Land as in the north of New Holland: and thousands of persons speak and write of the "Colony of Sydney," with as much nonchalance as they do of Australia under the silly title of "Botany Bay," a phrase, by the way, which sometimes creeps into colonial prints, the editors not considering that the ignorance in England of all Australian geography, and the prejudices of the ignorant in England, are increased by every rude use of a term, which is understood to designate the country inhabited by none but convicts and their descendants.

The last few months have shown, however, that there are some at home who know whereabouts under the moon lies this great Australian "colony of Sydney"—and that this "Botany Bay" is not a mere "meadow" of flowers, or a wide shallow sea-inlet, occupying a mere speck, notwithstanding, on the chart; but a vast region, with a coast line of several hundreds of miles in extent, and a breadth of hundreds also, in which are mountains, rivers, forests, towns, villages, great estates, millions of sheep and cattle, and a population which for enterprise, intellect, and general character, is second to none upon the face of the earth, and who possess as ardent a love for British freedom as any of Britain's unmigrating children that bask at home by the fire-side, and speak with sneers of those who, under a burning sun, are toiling to make the name of Britain honoured and honourable at the antipodes. These ideas are from time to time awakened with deep regret, when we fall in, as we occasionally do, with publications purporting to sway the minds of men at home, but which betray as great ignorance of Australian Geography as was ever held by any Minister of State at the Court of St. James.

As illustrating these remarks, and doing justice to one who has, as is known to many of our readers, never omitted an opportunity of advancing the knowledge of Australia, in his own peculiar province, so far as he could, we make mention of some singular proofs of the little information which seems to be possessed by even scientific men in England respecting our geographical condition. A few days since, at the Australian Library, turning over the pages of some recently arrived publications, we found an account of some geological phenomena on the Upper Wollondilly River. In one report of this memoir, the scene is laid in the "colony of Sydney," and in the 3rd number of the Quarterly Geological Journal itself, edited by a Professor of King's College, and having the sanction of the Council of the Society, we are informed that "the tract of country described by the author (on the Upper Wollondilly), is situated not far from Sydney and Port Jackson, the River Wollondilly taking its rise in lat. 34·26 S., long. 149·23 E., and after receiving the waters of several streams running into the Nepean River, and emptying itself into the ocean considerably to the south of Sydney;" that is, the Wollondilly rises not far from Sydney, runs into the Nepean, and (after, as we suppose, running out again,) enters the sea considerably to the south of Sydney.

The person who wrote this could never have inspected a map of the country; yet we are informed by the author of the Memoir, thus elegantly done into a new version, that he carefully described the geography of the district, and prepared a map of it, and that the whole of the account given of the vagaries of the Wollondilly is, notwithstanding the heading of the memoir,* unauthentic.

Yet, this is the careless way in which a learned half-geographical Society affords information to the British public, respecting a region of which many never heard, and of which, notwithstanding, the commonest maps of New South Wales supply the general outlines.

There is a still more curious example of geographical ignorance in the same 3rd number of the Journal of the Geological Society. At p. 407, there is an account of certain species of Silurian Fossils, from Hobarts' Town, NEW SOUTH WALES, a note at the end signifying it is "extracted from the Voyage de la Bonite."

But if a learned editor chooses to make extracts from French authors, and takes the trouble to translate them, it surely is but common prudence to see that he does not make himself ridiculous, and deceive his readers, by perpetuating, instead of correcting, the ignorance of those authors.

We take a few of the sentences from this precious document just as they occur.

The following are the results of "the examination by M. de Verneuil of certain fossils collected from Mount Wellington, near Hobarts' Town, New South Wales."

"The same species are found in Van Diemen's Land, and besides them are a great abundance which are rarely met with in the neighbourhood of Mount Wellington. ALL these specimens were collected in the hills of Morumbiji, to the south of the Blue Mountains." Now, in the above sentences, we are told plainly, that Hobarts' Town, near Mount Wellington, is in New South Wales—that the hills of Morumbiji are to the south of the Blue Mountains, and that the said Blue Mountains are in Van Diemen's Land!!!

Whilst such perfect ignorance and indifference about this "colony of Sydney" and territory of "Botany Bay," exist among the wise men of the University of London, we need not wonder that the grain of a British colony is treated by the ignoramuses of the House of Commons as if it came from a foreign land, or from some nebulous region far beyond the domain of Ceres or the light of Spica Virginis,—and, therefore, contraband.

There is a great talk about the schoolmaster being abroad, but we cannot help thinking he is much wanted at home, to teach the Lord JOHNS and Sir ROBERTS and Professors of this and that, what would be of as much use to them as a voyage to Cockatoo, and a journey to the Upper Wollondilly, viz., the necessity of thinking more, and more favourably, of those who, some day, may make themselves heard and respected after an unexpected fashion.

LAW INTELLIGENCE.

SUPREME COURT.—NISI PRIUS SITTINGS.

TUESDAY.

BEFORE His Honor Mr. Justice DICKINSON and a Jury of four.

THACKER AND OTHERS v. JAMISON.

This was an action by Messrs. Thacker, Mason, and Co., against Lady Mary Jamison, as executrix of the last will and testament of the late Sir John Jamison, to recover the principal and interest of a bill of exchange for £485 18s. 5d., drawn by Sir John Jamison upon Messrs. Stillwell and Sons, of Arundel-street, London, in favour of William Gibbes, Esq., which bill of exchange the said Messrs. Stillwell and Sons had refused either to accept or to pay. The defendant traversed most of the material allegations in the declaration.

On the part of the plaintiffs, the bill of exchange declared upon was produced and proved, as were also the protests, by a London notary, for non acceptance and non-payment; and the letters in which these protests and the bill itself, on its return to the colony, were enclosed. The protest for non-acceptance stated that the bill had been presented at the office of Messrs. Stillwell and Sons to a gentleman who was seen there, when the latter stated that "the accounts had been long since closed," and the demand for acceptance was not complied with.

Upon the conclusion of the plaintiffs' case, the defendant's counsel moved for a nonsuit upon various grounds, the principal of which was that there was no evidence of a proper presentation of the note for acceptance, inasmuch as the notary was bound to see the person or persons upon whom it had been drawn, which he did not appear to have done. This objection was, after argument, sustained by His HONOR; but the plaintiffs' counsel having expressed their desire of going to the Jury, the counsel for the defence proceeded to contend that there had been great laches on the part of the plaintiffs in the presentation of the bill for acceptance, and that upon this ground, as well as upon the point decided by His Honor, the defendant was entitled to a verdict.

His HONOR briefly addressed the Jury, leaving them to decide the questions of laches, &c., according to the evidence; but expressing his opinion that the evidence of presentation was insufficient; although it was open to the Jury to take upon themselves to decide this question of law if they thought fit.

The Jury after having retired for a few minutes, found a verdict for the plaintiffs' upon all the issues, damages £618 2s. 9d.

Counsel for the plaintiffs, Messrs. Windeyer and Darvall; for the defendant, Mr. Michie.

CLARKE v. COHEN.

This was an action brought to recover damages for assault and false imprisonment. The declaration stated, that on the 11th of November, 1845, the defendant had assaulted the plaintiff, and had caused him to be led in custody from his (the plaintiff's) shop, in George-street, to the receiving watch-house. To this the defendant had pleaded generally, that he was not guilty of the trespass complained of.

By the evidence adduced on the part of the plaintiff, it appeared that there had been a dispute between the parties relative to a case of hats which had been purchased by the plaintiff at one of the defendant's sales. The hats having been delivered to the plaintiff, the latter refused to pay the amount which the defendant conceived himself entitled to, for the case in which the hats were enclosed. Some time after this, Mr. Cohen went to the plaintiff's shop, where a quarrel took place; and, after a good deal of high words, a constable was sent for by Mr. Cohen, who was then much excited, and to this constable he proposed that the plaintiff should be taken into custody on account of the matter in dispute. The constable at once said that this was not a matter which would justify him in apprehending the defendant, and upon this Mr. C. charged him with stealing the hats. As soon as this charge was made, the plaintiff was taken to the watch-house, where, upon the particulars of the charge being repeated to the watch-house-keeper, the latter refused to receive the plaintiff, declaring, as the constable had before done, that the charge did not amount to one of robbery. No witnesses were called for the defence, but the learned counsel who appeared on the defendant's behalf addressed the Jury at considerable length in mitigation of damages, contending that having regard to the circumstances of the case, to the natural excitement of Mr. Cohen, and to the slightness of the injury sustained by the plaintiff, a very trifling amount of damages would be sufficient to satisfy the ends of justice, as Mr. Cohen would be differently punished for his mistake, by having to bear the costs of this proceeding.

His HONOR briefly summed up, leaving the Jury to determine, from all the circumstances of the case, to what amount of damages the plaintiff was entitled.

The Jury, after about ten minutes, consideration, found a verdict for the plaintiff, damages £50.

Court adjourned till ten o'clock this morning.

NEW ZEALAND NEWS.

OFFICIAL DESPATCHES.

Colonial Secretary's Office,
Auckland, January 17, 1846.

The Lieutenant Governor feels great satisfaction in directing the publication of the following despatches from Colonel Despard, containing the details of the operations against the rebel chiefs Kawiti and Heke, from the 29th December last to the 11th instant, inclusive,—operations which were conducted in a manner most highly honourable to Her Majesty's naval and military forces, and which resulted in a series of successes which must produce the most beneficial consequences for this portion of Her Majesty's dominions.

By His Excellency's command,
ANDREW SINCLAIR,
Colonial Secretary.

Camp before the Ruapekapeka,
Kawiti's Pah, January 5, 1846.

Sir,—In my letter dated the 28th ultimo, addressed to your Excellency, I had the honour of detailing the proceedings of the force under my command up to that period, and I now proceed with the detail of what has taken place since.

Before daylight on the morning of the 29th, a party of our native allies penetrated the wood immediately in our front, in a most praiseworthy manner, and took possession of an open piece of ground on the opposite side, sending me immediate intelligence of what they had done.

I directly moved forward with 200 men to their support, and secured the position.

The 30th and 31st were principally occupied in bringing up the guns and ammunition through the woods; a work of great labour and time; as it required between 30 and 60 men to each gun to get them through, on account of the heavy trees it was necessary to cut down, in making the road, and the steepness of the hills they had to pass over.

Several rockets and shells have been thrown into the pah on the 31st, and each day since, with the utmost accuracy, doing great credit to the officers of her Majesty's navy who directed them,—namely, Lieutenant Egerton, North Star, in charge of the rockets, and Lieutenant Bland, of the Racehorse, and Lieutenant Leeds, of H. E. I. C. S. Elphinstone, who directed the shells.

On the morning of the first instant, I pushed forward a strong party into the only wood that now divided us from the enemy, and taking up a position in the centre of it on an open piece of ground, about 400 yards from the pah, a strong stockade was immediately commenced for the purpose of covering a battery, and the work was sufficiently advanced before night to render any attempt of the enemy to drive us away useless. This work was carried on under cover of a very thick part of the wood, which completely concealed it from the enemy.

On the afternoon of the following day, the enemy made a strong sally from the pah, with a view, it is supposed, of turning the flank of this advanced party of ours in the stockade, which was not yet finished; but they were most gallantly opposed by our Native allies, under the direction of Chiefs Tomaiti Waka Nene, Noble or Nopera, Mohi Tawhai, and others, who instantly dashed out, and attacked them, driving them back with some loss, supposed to amount to eight or ten killed, and between fifteen and twenty wounded; on our side five were wounded on this occasion; and one of our most active chiefs, Repa, was severely wounded the previous day, in a skirmish with a small party of the enemy, who it appeared had come out of the pah for the purpose of picking off any stragglers from our camp, and who had succeeded in killing one of the Volunteer Pioneers, who had gone to an unnecessary distance for water, and was shot in the act of taking it. Up to this date no casualty, with the above exceptions, has taken place in the European part of the force.

It may be proper for me to observe, that in the action of the afternoon of the 2nd, the European troops acted only as a reserve, at the particular desire of the native chiefs, who were fearful that their own people might be mistaken for the enemy, and fired upon.

I have, &c.,
H. DESPARD,
Acting Colonel on the Staff,
Commanding the troops in New Zealand.
To His Excellency Governor Grey,
&c., &c.

Camp before the Ruapekapeka,
Kawiti's Pah, January 9, 1846.

Sir,—In continuation of my despatch of the 5th instant, I have the honour to acquaint your Excellency, that the stockade and battery mentioned therein as being commenced, within about four hundred yards of the pah, being nearly completed, I determined on throwing up another but much smaller on its right flank, and considerably in advance, so as effectually to put a stop to any attempt on the part of the enemy at making a sally, such as took place on the 2nd instant, as also entirely to cut off his communications with the country on the side of our camp. This second work was completed this day, and two guns (one eighteen pounder, and one twelve pounder howitzer) placed in battery within it. The larger stockade is also now complete, and contains two 32-pounders and four 5½ inch mortars.

Our present position before the pah is as follows,—The main camp is placed on an open piece of ground, or rather ridge, with deep wooded valleys on either side, and thick woods both in front and rear: the distance from the pah supposed to be about 750 yards. In our front are three guns, (one 32-pounder, one 12-pound howitzer, and one light 6-pounder), with an apparatus for throwing rockets. From this position several shells have been thrown into the pah, as well as rockets, and much execution must have been done by them, as they were well directed.

Within the larger stockade, which at the utmost cannot be more than 400 yards from the pah, there are two 32 pounders, and four small 5½ inch mortars; and the wood in front of these guns has been so completely cut down, that nearly the whole face of the pah is now open to their fire.

The small advanced stockade contains one 18-pounder and one 12-pound howitzer, and commands a range not only along the same face, (the western) that is exposed to the fire of our other batteries, but will also range along the southern face, and I expect destroy the defences on the south-west angle.

Our progress up to this period may have been considered slow, but great difficulties have been encountered, as your Excellency, who has been an eye witness to all our movements, will, I am sure, admit; and the decided advantage that will arise to the colony at large, if we succeed in carrying this place with little or no loss, has decided me in proceeding with so much caution.

I have, &c.,
H. DESPARD,
Acting Colonel on the Staff,
Commanding the Troops.
To His Excellency Governor Grey,
&c., &c.

Extract from Brigade Orders.
Camp before Ruapekapeka,
11th January, 1846.

The Officer commanding the forces against the rebel chiefs Heke and Kawiti, has the greatest satisfaction in congratulating the whole force at the brilliant success that has attended their operations for the last two days. The capture of a fortress, of such extraordinary strength by assault, and nobly defended by a brave and determined enemy, is of itself sufficient to prove the intrepidity and gallantry displayed by all concerned, whether seamen, marines, troops of the line, artillery of H.E.I.C. Service, and the volunteer pioneers; and it will be a most pleasing part of his duty to bring such conduct to the notice of his Excellency the Governor of New Zealand, and through him to that of her Majesty, and his Grace the Commander in-Chief.

The Colonel cannot conclude this order without expressing his admiration of the brave and intrepid conduct displayed by our native allies on every occasion since these operations commenced, and more particularly during the assault of the pah, on which occasion their bravery was fully equal to what might be expected from the bravest of her Majesty's troops.

The Colonel commanding feels the greatest regret at the loss of so many brave men as have been killed and wounded on this occasion; but it will be considered as an alleviation by their friends, that they have fallen while nobly performing their duty to their Queen and country.

Camp at the Ruapekapeka,
Kawiti's Pah, January 11, 1846.

Sir,—It is with extreme satisfaction that I have the honour of acquainting your Excellency that Kawiti's strong-hold, or pah, at the Ruapekapeka, was this day carried by assault by the force under my command, after a bold and most determined resistance on the part of the enemy, who continued the action long after he had been driven from the fortress; but the ardour and intrepidity displayed by the British force of every description, as well as by our native allies, overcame every obstacle, and after three hours hard fighting, the enemy was obliged to fly, and dispersed in different directions.

The detail of this attack, as well as that of the preceding day's cannonade, shall be laid before your Excellency with the least possible delay.

I greatly regret to add that our loss on this occasion has been heavy, as will be seen by the enclosed list of killed and wounded; but when the extraordinary strength of the place assaulted is taken into consideration, I am only surprised it has been so small.

I have, &c.,
H. DESPARD,
Acting Colonel on the Staff,
Commanding the Troops.
To His Excellency Governor Grey,
&c., &c.

Camp before the Ruapekapeka,
January 12, 1846.

Sir,—In my letter yesterday, I had the satisfaction of acquainting your Excellency of the fall of Kawiti's Pah, by assault on that day, and I now proceed to communicate the detail,

On the morning of the 10th instant, our advanced batteries being completed, (one within 350 yards, and the second about 160 yards, of the pah), a general fire was commenced from all the guns, with a view of opening a breach into the place, and several rockets were thrown into it at the same time, for the purpose of driving the enemy out. The fire was kept up with little intermission during the greater part of the day, and towards evening it was evident that the outer works on those parts against which the fire was directed, were nearly all giving way; but the numerous stockades inside, crossing the place in different directions, and composed of much stronger timbers, were scarcely touched. Towards evening our fire slackened, and was only continued occasionally during the night, to prevent the enemy attempting to repair the breaches that had been made.

On the following morning, the 11th instant, no person being observed moving within the pah, a few of our native allies, under a chief named William Waka, a brother of Tomaiti Waka Nene, went up to the place, for the purpose of observing whether or not the enemy had evacuated it. The party entered the breach unopposed, which being perceived from the nearest battery, a party of 100 men of the troops, under Captain Denny, was pushed up rapidly, and together with the natives, gained the inside of the stockades before they were perceived by the enemy, who at the time were sheltering themselves from the fire of our guns on a sloping piece of ground in one of their outworks. Our parties had scarcely gained the inside when they were noticed by the enemy, and a heavy fire of musketry instantly poured in upon them. The stockades, however, now became our protection, and strong reinforcements being immediately brought up from camp, possession of the place was secured in spite of all the efforts of the enemy to drive us back, being obliged to retreat and shelter himself in a wood opposite the east face of the Pah—where the trees, being extremely large and forming complete breastworks, many of them having been cut down previously and evidently purposely placed in a defensive position, he was enabled to maintain a heavy fire against us for a considerable time, until a doorway in that face having been broken open, the seamen and troops rushed out and dislodged him from his position. He, however, still continued to keep up a fire from the woods, but more with a view to cover his retreat and enable him to carry away his wounded men, than with any expectation of renewing the contest. The attack commenced about ten o'clock A.M., and all firing had ceased about two P.M.

The extraordinary strength of this place, particularly in its interior defences, far exceeded any idea I could have formed of it. Every hut was a complete fortress in itself, being strongly stockaded all round with heavy timbers sunk deep in the ground, and placed close to each other, few of them being less than one foot in diameter, and many considerably more, besides having a strong embankment thrown up behind them.—Each hut had also a deep excavation close to it, forming a complete bomb proof, and sufficiently large to contain several people, where at night they were completely sheltered from both shot and shell.

The enemy's loss has been severe, and several Chiefs on their side have fallen; the numbers I have not been able to ascertain, as they invariably carry off both killed and wounded when possible. Several of the former were, however, left behind; and it has been decidedly ascertained from a wounded prisoner, that the chief Heke had joined Kawiti in the Pah on the afternoon preceding the attack.

As your Excellency has been an eye witness to our operations, and I may say actually engaged in the assault, it may be thought unnecessary to draw your attention to those persons who had a greater opportunity than others of distinguishing themselves; but the satisfaction I feel in recording the obligation I am under to those persons, makes me persevere in doing so. To the officers, seamen, and marines from Her Majesty's ships, for their extraordinary exertions in dragging the guns over steep hills, and through difficult and thick woods, as well as for their distinguished bravery in action, the service on this occasion is greatly indebted. To Captain Graham, of H.M.S. Castor, for his co-operation, and the readiness with which he afforded every possible aid and assistance since his arrival. To Captain Sir E. Home who had previously been the senior Naval Officer, and who, not only on the present occasion, but on all former ones, has used the most strenuous exertions to forward all the objects of the expedition. To Commander Hay, of H.M.S. Racehorse, who commanded the whole of the seamen attached to the Force, and who so greatly aided our operations by his personal exertions and example, not only during the assault, but in all the previous difficulties we had to encounter. To Lieutenant Otway, of H.M.S. Castor, commanding the small armed seamen. To Lieutenant Falcon, of H.M.S. Castor; Lieutenant Bland, and Mr. Nopps, Master, of H.M.S. Racehorse; and Lieutenant Leeds, H.E.I.C.S. Elphinstone, who all directed the fire of the guns with such precision and excellence; and to Lieutenant Egerton, of H.M.S. North Star, who directed the rockets, much of our success is to be attributed. To Lieutenant-Colonel Wynyard, commanding the 58th Regiment, I feel the greatest obligation. His advice was of the utmost use to me on many occasions, and his personal exertions, whenever an opportunity offered, as well as his gallantry during the assault, were most conspicuous. To Captain Reid, commanding the flank companies 99th Regiment, and Captain Langford, Royal Marines, (attached), much praise is due. To Captain Marlow, Royal Engineers, for his exertions in constructing the batteries; Captain Matson, 58th Regt., who acted as Deputy Assistant Quartermaster-General; and Lieut. Wilmot, Royal Artillery, who directed the mortar battery, great praise is also due. I have also derived great assistance from the services of Lieutenant O'Connell, 51st Regt., A.D.C. to Lieut.-General Sir Maurice O'Connell, and Acting Major of Brigade to this Force. And I must not omit to notice in very strong terms the indefatigable exertions of Captain Atkins, and his small corps of Volunteer Pioneers, whose conduct and services during the whole operations have been of the greatest advantage.

Every kindness has been shown to the wounded men by Doctors Kidd and Pine, the senior Medical Officers, and all the Medical Officers, both Naval and Military; and I have reason to be satisfied with the exertions of the Commissariat Department, under D.A.C.G. Turner. The wounded men are generally doing well, and the only officer amongst them, a young midshipman of H.M.S. North Star, Mr. Murray, whose ardour carried him too far when the enemy were driven from the woods.

I have now only to express the peculiar satisfaction I feel, that Your Excellency has had an opportunity of personally witnessing the toils and difficulties that were encountered, and the cheerfulness with which every part of the force exerted itself to overcome them, and I beg to express my own sincere thanks for the advice and observations that you have occasionally been kind enough to favour me with during that period.

I should also wish to draw Your Excellency's notice to Mr. Edward Shortland, who was prevailed upon to act as my interpreter, and who has rendered me many important services while acting in that capacity.

I have the honour to be,
Your Excellency's most obedient servant,
H. DESPARD,
Acting Colonel on the Staff,
Commanding the Troops.
His Excellency Governor Grey.

Camp at the Ruapekapeka,
14th January, 1846.

Sir,—I have the honour to state, for your Excellency's information, that in my despatch dated the 12th instant, I omitted to mention that two guns were taken in the pah, at the Ruapekapeka—one a twelve pound carronade, broken by one of our eighteen pound shot; and the other, a four pounder, in serviceable order. The latter has been brought away with the troops, and will be conveyed to Auckland.

I have, &c.,
H. DESPARD,
Acting Colonel on the Staff,
Commanding the Troops.
To His Excellency Governor Grey,
&c., &c.

PROCLAMATION.

By His Excellency George Grey, Esq., Lieutenant-Governor and Commander in Chief in and over Her Majesty's colony of New Zealand and its dependencies, and Vice Admiral of the same, &c.

Whereas by several proclamations bearing date respectively the 17th April, the 19th May, and the 2nd June, 1845, the east coast of the northern island of New Zealand, from Wangarei to Monganui, and Doubtless Bay, was placed under blockade,—and whereas the present circumstances of the colony render it unnecessary that such blockade should be longer maintained:

Now I, the Lieutenant Governor, do hereby proclaim and declare, that on and after the first day of February next, the blockade of the said coast will be discontinued.

Given under my hand, and issued under the Public Seal of the Colony, at Government House, Auckland, this twenty-first day of January, in the Year of Our Lord one thousand eight hundred and forty-six.

GEORGE GREY,
Lieutenant-Governor.
By command of his Excellency,
Andrew Sinclair,
Colonial Secretary.
God Save the Queen!

PROCLAMATION.

By his Excellency, George Grey, Esq., Lieutenant-Governor and Commander-in-Chief in and over her Majesty's Colony of New Zealand, and its Dependencies, and Vice Admiral of the same, &c.

Whereas by a Proclamation bearing date the 26th day of April, 1845, it was proclaimed and declared that Martial Law would be exercised throughout that part of the Northern district of New Zealand which lies around the Bay of Islands, including the said Bay, and within a circle of sixty miles in any direction from Russell, until the said district shall be relieved from the jurisdiction of Martial Law by public proclamation. And whereas the present circumstances of the colony render it unnecessary that Martial Law should be longer exercised within the said district:

Now I, the Lieutenant Governor, do hereby proclaim and declare, that from and after the first day of February next, the said district will be relieved from the jurisdiction of Martial Law.

Given under my hand, and issued under the Public Seal of the Colony, at Government House, Auckland, this twenty-first day of January, in the year of our Lord one thousand eight hundred and forty-six.

GEORGE GREY,
Lieutenant-Governor.
By command of His Excellency,
Andrew Sinclair,
Colonial Secretary.
God save the Queen!

Colonial Secretary's Office,
Auckland, 23rd January, 1846.

The Governor directs it to be notified to the Chiefs in the northern part of New Zealand, and to all others concerned, that the rebel Chiefs having been defeated and dispersed by Her Majesty's troops upon the 11th instant, when the pah of the Ruapekapeka was taken and destroyed, and having subsequently made their complete submission to the Government by letter and through Tomati Waka Nene, who upon his own part and that of the other friendly Chiefs, interceded warmly on behalf of the rebels,—the Governor has thought proper to give effect to Her Majesty's earnest desire for the happiness and welfare of her native subjects in New Zealand, by granting a free pardon to all concerned in the late rebellion, who may now return in peace and safety to their houses,—where, so long as they conduct themselves properly, they shall remain unmolested in their persons and properties

It must be distinctly understood, that nothing contained in the foregoing portion of this notice will justify any natives retaining in their possession horses stolen from the Europeans. Such horses must forthwith be returned to their proper owners; and those natives who continue to retain them in their possession may rely that whenever they may be apprehended, the Governor will cause them to be handed over to the proper authorities, to be dealt with according to the law, without any reference to the period of time that may have elapsed since the horses were stolen.

By command,
ANDREW SINCLAIR,
Colonial Secretary.

Colonial Secretary's Office,
Auckland, 23rd January, 1846

The Governor directs it to be notified for the information of the Native Chiefs in the northern part of this Island, that upon the capture of the pah of the Ruapekapeka, on the 11th instant, a large number of letters addressed by various persons to the rebels were found, and were brought to the Governor, who was informed that some of them were of a treasonable nature. The Governor being, however, aware that many persons formerly in correspondence with the rebels, are now firmly attached to the Government, and regret the course they formerly pursued, has caused all these letters to be burnt without being read by them, and without any copies of them having been taken, or any translations of them made. The writers of them need, therefore, entertain no apprehension whatever of any evil consequences resulting to them from having written these letters, or even of any prejudice against them existing in the mind of the Governor on this account, as he does not know the names of the writers of any of these letters.

By command,
ANDREW SINCLAIR,
Colonial Secretary.

Colonial Secretary's Office,
Auckland, 23rd January, 1846.

The Governor directs it to be notified for the information of the family and friends of Kihe, a native, who was severely wounded at the capture of the Ruapekapeka, on the 11th instant, and taken prisoner—that he now is only detained in order that he may receive proper medical treatment; and that as soon as his wound is completely healed, he will be set at liberty, and be sent by the first opportunity to his friends.

By command,
ANDREW SINCLAIR,
Colonial Secretary.
